

"STAND BY THE PRESIDENT." G.O.P. CRY

Heat Fatal To Many In Middle West

SIGHT RELIEF IN ONLY FEW SMALL AREAS

Temperature Here Reaches 97
At Noon Today—Thunder-Showers Fail.

CHICAGO, July 11.—"Fair and warmer" was the almost universal prediction for Central Western states today, as millions continued to suffer in the most intense heat wave of the year.

While thunder showers were expected to bring relief in a few localities, no general relief was forecast by the government observers.

Temperature at noon in Circleville had reached 97 degrees officially, according to Dr. Clarke, weather observer. The sun had not as yet reached its peak, however, and possibilities of a still hotter day were very much in evidence.

Promises of the U. S. weather bureau at Columbus that Thursday night would be filled with rain and thunder failed to materialize and today was just as much a scorcher, if not worse, than Thursday was.

Localities, no general relief was forecast by the government observers.

THROUGH BEACHES
Meanwhile, the toll of deaths attributed to the heat still mounted and scores of prostrations were reported. Thousands thronged to bathing beaches and other resorts.

Cities along the Great Lakes were favored by cooling breezes which promised to last throughout the day. Chicago's temperature was below 80 up to noon.

In the plain regions, however, hot, dry winds produced a furnace-like atmosphere. In numerous sections farmers were reported to have stopped work in the fields.

Temperatures well above the century mark were common throughout the middle west yesterday and these records apparently were due to be exceeded by this afternoon.

While the mercury climbed to 103 in St. Louis yesterday seven more heat deaths in that city and East St. Louis, Ill., were reported, bringing the total for the vicinity to 15.

West Frankfort and other cities of lower Illinois sweltered under temperatures ranging to 106. Heat buckling caused considerable damage to pavements. Crops here were being toasted.

A dash of rain brought a modicum of relief to Springfield, Ill., after heat records for the last four years were broken by a temperature of 98 and one death was caused by the weather.

104 IN IOWA
A temperature of 104 was registered at three Iowa cities yesterday, Atlantic, Council Bluffs, and Marshalltown. Des Moines' highest was 103. Four more deaths were attributed to the heat. Cedar Rapids experienced its hottest weather in 18 years. Sixty horses were reported to have died of the heat in Green and Sioux counties.

Three deaths in Minnesota were attributed to the heat.

Little Rock, Ark., and Huron, S. D., reported temperatures of 104, while the mercury was unofficially said to be at 109 in Kansas.

Colorado today entered its 11th consecutive day of above-90 temperatures with no relief in sight. Denver recorded 92 yesterday and Pueblo 96.

Miles City, Mont., and Sheridan, Wyo., sweltered with the thermometer at 96.

Considerably lower temperatures were reported from Utah to New Mexico, but extreme and conditions prevailed throughout the region.

MT. STERLING MAN IS HEART VICTIM

Charles Dennison, aged 64, died at his home near Mt. Sterling Thursday. Heart Disease caused death.

He is survived by four sisters, Misses Della and Alice Dennison, and Mrs. Mary Neff and Mrs. A. E. Davis, and four brothers, Mr. William, Sherman and George, all of Mt. Sterling.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Sunday at 1:30 a. m. with burial in Mt. Sterling cemetery.

ROOF DAMAGE BY FIRE $150

Stove Spark Falls on Roof of Hanley Property on Adelphi
Pk Thursday.

Fire damage of over $150 resulted when a spark from the chimney fell on the roof of the home of Mrs. John Hanley, Chillicothe, on the Adelphi-pk and burned over half the roof.

Kenzie Hartley and family reside in the dwelling and Mrs. Hartley was in the kitchen cooking, when one of the neighbors rushed in and told her that the roof was on fire. The local fire department was called, and when they arrived at the scene the fire had acquired a good start, and looked as though the roof would not be saved, however, the local fire fighters soon had the blaze under control.

As Mrs. Hanley lives in Chillicothe it is not known whether or not the home is insured.

GROOMS TAKEN TO WORKHOUSE

Sentenced To 90 Days By Adlins After Failing To Support Family.

Roy Grooms, this city, who was arrested sometime ago by Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell on N. Scioto-st and was brought to the county jail on the rear of Fissell's motorcycle, was out riding again Friday morning, but this time was in the sheriff's Chevrolet accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Carl Porter on the road to the Cincinnati workhouse. He will begin to serve a three months sentence there, after being arrested for the third time on a non-support charge filed by his wife.

Grooms was given a hearing before Judge J. W. Adkins Friday morning, who imposed this sentence upon him. He was warned in a previous hearing if he was arrested again he would go to the workhouse.

YOUTH TO DIE AT OHIO PEN FOR SHOOTING

Lawrence Dull, 26, of Seneca-
Co, Pleads Innocence On Last Day To Live.

By LAFAYETTE CARTER
COLUMBUS, O., July 11.—The shadow of death and the spectre of the electric chair cast their gloom over Lawrence Dull, 26, Seneca-co slayer, today as he awaited the "last mile" march to the instrument in Ohio Penitentiary which will take his life shortly after dusk tonight.

EXPECT SOLACE
The solace which the slayer had expected to come from his home in Tiffin yesterday still was conspicuous by its absence this morning. Dull was counting on a visit from his relatives who were reported enroute here from Tiffin Thursday afternoon but so far as could be learned today, they had not yet arrived in Columbus and apparently had changed their plans of keeping a death watch with the condemned man.

Reports from Ohio Penitentiary this morning said that Dull had lost some of the iron nerve which he had maintained throughout his trial and while his lawyers made appeal after appeal for a new trial, a stay of execution from the Ohio Supreme Court and lastly, executive clemency from Governor Myers Y. Cooper. Officials at the bastille said that Dull appeared to be straining at a high tension to retain the company he displayed when he calmly told International News Service a short time ago that he was "not afraid to die."

Dull, in an interview while he was still confined in the improvised death row at the local central station, told this correspondent that he was innocent of the fatal shooting of Roy Tish, Fostoria filling station attendant last November, and that he was "taking the rap" for Kenneth Brown, an alleged accomplice, who was seriously wounded by Tish before he fell and who is now serving a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary. Dull had hoped, he told the interviewer at the time, that Brown would confess to the crime. Brown, however, was still silent on the eve of his cohort's execution, and maintained that the story he told on the stand was true.

Word came from death row this morning that Lawrence's brother, the Reverend Emert Dull, president of the People's Tabernacle at Youngstown, O., has requested that the Reverend Raymond Browning, of Columbus spend the last hours with his wayward brother.

The Tiffin murderer will be the first man to go to the electric chair from the new "death row" at the penitentiary, which has been remodeled since the disastrous Easter Monday fire.

SENT TO PEN
Dull was imprisoned in the state prison once before he was condemned to die. He was graduated into the penitentiary in 1927, on a larceny charge, from the Ohio state reformatory at Mansfield.

He escaped from the Junction City brick plant a year later by climbing over the stockade wall. He was later connected with the robbery of two old men at Upper Sandusky.

Dull was originally scheduled to die June 11 but was granted a stay of execution by the Ohio supreme court. Governor Cooper has refused to grant a commutation of sentence.

WATCHMAN FIRES AT GAS ROBBER

Residents of S. Court-st below the Norfolk and Western Railroad were somewhat aroused Thursday about midnight when a pistol shot was heard fired in that district.

However, the situation was soon explained when it was learned that the night-watchman in charge of the A. F. Raley Construction Co.'s machinery laying the storm sewer on S. Court-st., had fired a shot to scare a prowler who attempted to steal some gasoline.

A few residents of the south-end stated that they thought that possibly a miniature gang war had been stirred up in that district.

Leeds Rescues Former Clerk

One more chapter was added to the colorful career of Miss Olive Hamilton, former hotel desk clerk, when she was rescued from the ocean at Atlantic City by William B. Leeds, heir to the tin plate millions and former husband of Princess Xenia of Greece. When Miss Hamilton, whose engagement to Leeds was rumored some time ago, was thrown into the water when her boat overturned, Leeds dove from his yacht nearby to the rescue. Both are pictured above.

INSTALL JR. ORDER HERE FRIDAY EVE

Large Delegations of Members From Other Cities To Attend Services.

Large delegations of members of the Junior Order, U. A. M., from Columbus, Chillicothe, Lancaster and other cities in South Central Ohio are expected to attend the organization of a new council of the order in Woodman Hall in this city Friday night, July 11. The work will be under the direction of M. T. Blythe, Columbus, the district deputy.

The order will hold its state convention in Dayton next month.

N. SKAGGS TO FACE CHARGE

Man Sentenced For Possession, Must Also Answer To Concealed Weapons.

Noah Skaggs, who was arrested in this city sometime ago by local police who filed charges against him, of possession of intoxicating liquor and carrying concealed weapons, and who was sentenced to serve out a fine of $100 and costs for possession, in the workhouse was brought to this city from Cincinnati Friday by Deputy Sheriff Carl Porter to answer a charge before grand jury of carrying concealed weapons.

THRESHER IS BADLY HURT

Raymon Hinton Thrown Between Horses When Driving Belt Breaks.

Raymond Hinton, of Saltrock-twp., is suffering from a broken arm and other painful injuries following an accident which occurred this week while he was helping with the threshing at the home of Amos Bowers west of Adelphi.

Hinton was standing on top a loaded wheat wagon when the large driving belt from the engine broke, and flying through the air striking the horses frightened them, causing them to run away. Hinton was thrown to the ground between the two horses.

When assistance arrived he was thought to be dead. He was rushed to a physician where he was found to be suffering from a deep cut on his mouth, his hip cut through, a broken right arm and an injured left limb.

WILSON RITES

Funeral services for James W. Wilson, who died Wednesday at the Franklin-co home were held Friday at 2 p. m. at the South Bloomingfield church with burial in the cemetery there.

RELIEF GROUP IS ANNOUNCED BY RED CROSS

Disaster Preparedness Program Outlined by National Organizer Here.

As another step in the preparedness program of the American Red cross, of which Miss Helen J. Moses is national organizer for this district, a committee for disaster relief in this county has been appointed. The personnel of the committee is as follows: general chairman, Robert L. Brehmer; food, Howard Orr; clothing, E. S. Neuding; shelter, T. F. Jeffries; medical aid, Dr. Harry D. Jackson; registration and information, John C. Goeller; finance, Clark Will; transportation and communication, Ed C. Ebert; rescue, Frank A. Lynch.

NAME ASSISTANTS
Each chairman will name a committee to aid him. It is hoped that this committee never need function in this community, however, there is no assurance that anyplace is immune from disaster, and with this committee arranged by the Red Cross, any emergency of this kind will be handled.

Other services organized by Miss Moses are the Junior Red Cross, Lester E. Seitz, chairman; first aid and life-saving, J. M. Lynch, production for making and supplying garments, etc., for loan closet for county-wide use, Mrs. Clark Will; volunteer motor corps, Mrs. Orion King, chairman; permanent roll call committee, Frank A. Lynch, Tom A. Renick and Harry G. Stevenson.

The Pickaway-on chapter board consists of: chairman, Miss Anna B. Florence, Jackson-twp.; first vice chairman, E. C. Ebert; second vice-president, Mrs. Whitney Lamb, Commercial Point; treasurer, Bryce Briggs; secretary, Mrs. A. M. Weigand; executive secretary, Agnes R. Butch.

The executive committee is, Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker, Williamsport; Mrs. T. C. Gooley, Mrs. Floyd James, New Holland, Mrs. G. W. Morrison, Mrs. Van Vickle, Ash-ville; Miss Farnah Warner, St. Paul; Mrs. G. W. Valentine, Washington-twp.; Mrs. Bernard Young, Pickaway-twp.; Mrs. Orion King, Mrs. Amy Nickerson, Mrs. H. D. Jackson, Frank A. Lynch, R. L. Brehmer, Lester E. Seitz, J. M. Lynch, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Charles A. Dresbach and the officers of the chapter.

During Miss Moses' last visit to this city she met exceedingly busy in getting these committees and especially the disaster relief group lined up.

LAURELVILLE FETE SEPT. 1-6

George E. Dix Named Chairman of Annual Fall Festi-

Mr. Carlin of Columbus has been notified to meet with the committees to arrange for rider and other concessions. Farm displays are being obtained by the committee.

LOCKJAW FATAL, BURN IS CAUSE

18-Year-Old Middlenport Boy
Dies In Gallipolis Hospital
Friday.

MIDDLEPORT, O. July 11.—Lockjaw, which developed from a powder burn which he received July 4 when a firecracker exploded in his hand, caused the death of Milton Gilmer, 18-year-old son of Magistrate Fred Gilmer, today.

The youth died in Gallipolis hospital, where he was rushed yesterday when physicians discovered the lockjaw. The boy was at first treated for a dislocated jaw, but several hours' work failed to reset it.

Nineteen units of anti-tetanus serum failed to save the boy's life. His jaws became locked Wednesday when he yawned while he was picking blackberries.

$156 COGNOVIT

A cognovit judgment was filed in common pleas court Friday by The Third National Bank, through its attorney, Meeker Terwilliger, against Henry Webbe, this city, for the sum of $156.35.

The amount claimed is due on a promissory note.

ROTARY HEARS OF CONVENTION

Meeker Terwilliger, District
Governor-Elect, Tells of
Chicago Meet.

The proceedings of the twenty-fifth anniversary convention were thoroughly explained to the members of the local Rotary club, Thursday noon when Meeker Terwilliger, Governor-elect of the 22nd District spoke at the meeting.

He explained the program at the conference of the newly elected governors that was held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel the week preceding the convention. The atmosphere of friendship prevailed throughout the whole meeting, he said, and much stress was laid on the sixth object of Rotary and the feeling that exists between the nations across the sea and the United States. This subject was paramount at the conference and was brought out at the convention by several of the speakers. Much good is being done by Rotary throughout the world, and there is still much to be done, he stated.

Over 11,000 members registered at the convention and 51 countries were represented, which gives you some idea of the expansion of Rotary since its inception, 25 years ago, he stated.

As retiring President and being elected Governor of this district, the members of the club showed their appreciation of the honor brought to them by presenting Governor Meeker with a beautiful desk set.

Anticipating that Republican candidates are going to be hard put to explain the business depression of the last eight months, Watson declared that they need offer no apology for it from a political standpoint.

"No heavier blow was ever struck at the nation's economic and financial structure than the stock market crash of last autumn," he said. "I am not undertaking to discuss the causes of this panic—they were international as well as national in character, and cannot by any stretch of imagination fairly be attributed to any fault of the Hoover administration."

"But for the prompt and statesmanlike course of President Hoover this panic would have produced consequences far more disastrous than have been experienced."

Watson's speech, which was almost like the keynote speech at a national convention, was delivered with the approval and "ok" of President Hoover. It thus constitutes, virtually, an administration document, for the Senate leader was speaking for the White House.

GOODMAN'S WHEAT 25 BU. PER ACRE

this city, reported to the county farm bureau that his wheat of over 100 acres averaged a yield of 25 or more bushels per acre when he threshed Thursday.

This is considered very good as up to this time, the yields have been over 20 bushels per acre.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Washington Brandon was removed from her home in Jackson-twp Friday to University hospital, Columbus, where she will undergo treatment. She was accompanied by Miss Helen Bartholomew, county health nurse.

WATSON SAYS NO APOLOGIES ARE EXPECTED

Farm Relief?, Tariff Revision,
London Treaty To Be
Campaign Items.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—"Stand by the president!"

Republicans up for re-election this year, feeling none too clipped over the outlook were advised today by Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate, to rest their cases on this ancient war-cry of the party in power.

Over a national radio hook-up last night, the veteran Senate leader wrote what is generally considered to be the Republican textbook for the current campaign, in which a new house is to be elected as well as a third of the senate.

NO APOLOGIES
He counseled his colleagues to go to the country on the record of the Hoover administration, not on ologically, but with high praise for its accomplishments, and defense for its critics.

"The American people," said Watson, "should back president Hoover to the limit. They should give him a congressional majority in both branches that will try to help and not hinder in the development of his plans."

"He is near mid-stream in his administration. He faced grave problems that he did not create. He has met insurmountable difficulties for which he is in no wise responsible. To solve them he has carried through a great program of legislation and administration."

Mr. Hoover has accomplished all this, Watson declared, despite the fact that he has labored under the handicap of constant opposition from one branch of Congress. He referred to the Senate, where the Republican party majority is nullified by the western insurgent voting as often against the administration as with it.

THREE FACTORS
The three principal accomplishments of the administration, and upon which it asks for the return of a Republican Congress in November, Watson listed as follows:

1. Farm Relief.
2. Tariff Revision.
3. The London Naval Treaty.

Despite savage assaults on all three, Watson asserted Republican orators need apologize for none of them.

"The administration's farm relief plan," he said, "represents the best thought of students of this problem."

"The new tariff law, he declared, is beneficial equally to business and to the farmer."

"In fact," he said, "the new tariff law is chiefly in its rates a farm relief measure."

As for the London Naval Treaty, it represents, he said, a great forward step down the road to world peace.

MUST EXPLAIN
Anticipating that Republican candidates are going to be hard put to explain the business depression of the last eight months, Watson declared that they need offer no apology for it from a political standpoint.

"No heavier blow was ever struck at the nation's economic and financial structure than the stock market crash of last autumn," he said. "I am not undertaking to discuss the causes of this panic—they were international as well as national in character, and cannot by any stretch of imagination fairly be attributed to any fault of the Hoover administration."

"But for the prompt and statesmanlike course of President Hoover this panic would have produced consequences far more disastrous than have been experienced."

The Pickaway-co chapter board consists of: chairman, Miss Anna B. Florence, Jackson-twp; first vice chairman, E. C. Ebert; second vice-president, Mrs. Whitney Lamb, Commercial Point; treasury, Bryce Briggs; secretary, Mrs. A. M. Weigand; executive secretary, Agnes R. Butch.

The executive committee is, Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker, Williamsport; Mrs. T. C. Gooley, Mrs. Floyd James, New Holland, Mrs. G. W. Morrison, Mrs. Van Vickle, Ashville; Miss Farnah Warner, St. Paul; Mrs. G. W. Valentine, Washington-twp; Mrs. Bernard Young, Pickaway-twp; Mrs. Orion King, Mrs. Amy Nickerson, Mrs. H. D. Jackson, Frank A. Lynch, R. L. Brehmer, Lester E. Seltz, J. M. Lynch, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Charles A. Dresbach and the officers of the chapter.

During Miss Moses' last visit to this city she was kept exceedingly busy in getting these committees and especially the disaster relief group lined up.

The windstorm the latter part of June in this county, which brought great loss to farms and to light and telephone companies, was a dramatic and effective lesson that a disaster relief committee should be maintained.

LAURELVILLE FETE SEPT. 1-6

George E. Dix Named Chair-

ROTARY HEARS OF CONVENTION

Meeker Terwilliger, District
Governor-Elect, Tells of
Chicago Meet.

The proceedings of the twenty-fifth anniversary convention were thoroughly explained to the members of the local Rotary club Thursday noon when Meeker Terwilliger, Governor-elect of the 22nd District spoke at the meeting.

He explained the program at the conference of the newly elected governors that was held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel the week preceding the convention. The atmosphere of friendship prevailed throughout the whole meeting, he said, and much stress was laid on the sixth object of Rotary and the feeling that exists between the nations across the sea and the United States. This subject was paramount at the conference and was brought out at the convention by several of the speakers. Much good is being done by Rotary throughout the world, and there is still much to be done, he stated.

Over 11,000 members registered at the convention and 51 countries were represented, which gives you some idea of the expansion of Rotary since its inception, 25 years ago, he stated.

As retiring President and being elected Governor of this district, the members of the club showed their appreciation of the honor brought to them by presenting Governor Meeker with a beautiful desk set.

MISS HAUCK IS NEW CHAMPION

O. S. U. Co-ed Plays Per Golf
To Defeat Mrs. Curtis
Sohl 1929 Champ.

COLUMBUS, O., Scioto Country Club—Playing par championship golf, Miss Mary Hauck, 22-year-old Ohio State University co-ed won the eleventh annual women's State Golf Tournament here today by defeating Mrs. Curtis Sohl of Columbus, the defending title holder three and one.

The Toledo champion represents the Sylvana Country Club of that city. She was one up on Mrs. Sohl at the turn and fought brilliantly over the remaining nine holes to go farther ahead of the champion.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Washington Brandon was removed from her home in Jackson-twp Friday to University hospital, Columbus, where she will undergo treatment. She was accompanied by Miss Helen Bartholomew, county health nurse.

WATSON SAYS NO APOLOGIES ARE EXPECTED

Farm Relief?, Tariff Revision,
London Treaty To Be
Campaign Items.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—"Stand by the president!"

Republicans up for re-election this year, feeling none too clipper over the outlook were advised today by Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate, to rest their cases on this ancient war-cry of the party in power.

Over a national radio hook-up last night, the veteran senate leader wrote what is generally considered to be the Republican textbook for the current campaign, in which a new house is to be elected as well as a third of the senate.

NO APOLOGIES

He counselled his colleagues to go to the country on the record of the Hoover administration—not ologically, but with high praise for its accomplishments, and defiance for its critics.

"The American people," said Watson, "should back president Hoover to the limit. They should give him a congressional majority in both branches that will try to help and not hinder in the development of his plans."

"He is near mid-stream in his administration. He faced grave problems that he did not create. He has met' innumerable difficulties for which he is in no wise responsible. To solve them he has carried through a great program of legislation and administration."

Mr. Hoover has accomplished all this, Watson declared, despite the fact that he has "labored under the handicap of constant opposition" from one branch of Congress. He referred to the Senate where the Republican party majority is nullified by the western insurgents voting as often against the administration as with it.

THREE FACTORS

The three principal accomplishments of the administration, and upon which it asks for the return of a Republican Congress in November, Watson listed as follows:

1. Farm Relief.
2. Tariff Revision.
3. The London Naval Treaty.

Despite savage assaults on all three, Watson asserted Republican orators need apologize for none of them.

The administration's farm relief plan, he said, "represents the best thought of students of this problem."

The new tariff law, he declared, is beneficial equally to business and to the farmer.

"In fact," he said, "the new tariff law is chiefly in its rates a farm relief measure."

As for the London Naval Treaty, it represents, he said, a great forward step down the road to world peace.

MUST EXPLAIN

Anticipating that Republican candidates are going to be hard put to explain the business depression of the last eight months, Watson declared that they need offer no apology for it from a political standpoint.

"No heavier blow was ever struck at the nation's economic and financial structure than the stock market crash of last autumn," he said. "I am not undertaking to discuss the causes of this panic—they were international as well as national in character, and cannot by any stretch of imagination fairly be attributed to any fault of the Hoover administration."

"But for the prompt and statesmanlike course of President Hoover this panic would have produced consequences far more disastrous than have been experienced."

Watson's speech, which was almost like the keynote speech at a national convention, was delivered with the approval and "ok" of President Hoover. It thus constitutes, virtually, an administration document, for the Senate leader was speaking for the White House.

GOODMAN'S WHEAT 25 BU. PER ACRE

Lawrence Goodman, Route 9, this city, reported to the county farm bureau that his wheat of over 100 acres averaged a yield of 25 or more bushel per acre, when he threshed Thursday.

This is considered very good as up to this time, the yields have not been over 20 bushels per acre.

SENATOR BELIEVES YOUTH WILL WIN HUNGARY CROWN

BY FREDERIC K. ABBOTT.
BUDAPEST, July 10.—Archduke Otto, oldest of the eight children of the late Charles IV and the Empress Zita, will be king of Hungary. The return of Carol II to the throne of Roumania has made this a certainty.

This is the considered opinion of Senator Joseph Veszi, publisher of Pester Lloyd, Budapest's largest newspaper, who says there can be no other course for the country to pursue. Hungary must bring the Hapsburgs back to the throne.

"There is no particular hurry," the Senator said. "We Hungarians are a patient people and everything comes to him who waits. We learned our mistake by hurrying on two occasions in the past—1920 and 1921, when Otto's father, Charles, tried in vain to regain his crown.

"The country was not ready at that time. We were impatient to welcome our king, and our impatience cost us dearly. It cost the life of Charles."

Senator Veszi will admit of no opposition to Otto in all Hungary. "There is no opposition. All Hungary knows that we must have the Hapsburgs back on the throne. The country cannot exist without him. Here and there you may hear weak protests from those that have other ideas for the future of Hungary, but these protests are nothing but the voices of small politicians who have axes to grind."

The Senator cited the seizure of the Roumanian by Carol II as a precedent for placing Archduke Otto on the Hungarian throne. "The Roumanian parliament repealed its own act, made in 1926, barring Carol from the country and nullifying his rights to the throne," he reminded this interviewer. "It repealed its act and proclaimed Carol king. Why can't the Hungarian parliament do the same thing?"

"Were we not under pressure when we voted a similar act concerning the house of Hapsburg? Our legislature was compelled to act as it did. But that was done at the very end of the war when the minds and spirits of men were still suffering from the war. They were not clear sighted, and they could not see into the future."

"Now, 12 years after, men are able to see things in proper proportions, and all the world knows that Hungary must have her rightful king."

The publisher said. Admiral Horthy is doing and will continue to do all in his power to further the return of the youthful king.

"Admiral Horthy is a great Hungarian, a great patriot. When he knows that the time is ripe he will be proud and happy to stand aside and welcome his sovereign.

"Horthy, like all Hungarians, knows that Otto should be on the throne. He knows that Otto will carry out the ideas of his father. That father did all he could to prevent war. That father went to a premature grave for his country and his people. The son of such a man can do nothing but good for his country. 'Long live King Otto.'"

"DOGS" MIGHT GIVE VILLAGE BLAZE NEEDS

City Officials Ask Prosecutor To Permit Them To Aid Revenue For Town.

LONDON, O.—The "dogs" may soon be running wild again Madison county, with the scene of rampage again centered at West Jefferson, where the destruction by fire of a large grain elevator a few days ago caused a public demand for fire protection.

Village officials want the dog races to open at once in order to secure the money for a new fire fighting equipment.

A delegation of West Jefferson citizens, members of the village council, several village officials and officers of the West Jefferson Kennel Club came here yesterday to confer with county prosecutor Jesse E. Strayer regarding the possibility of a four-week meeting of greyhound racing at the West Jefferson track.

It was explained to the prosecutor that $300 a night is guaranteed to the village by the kennel club, for the purchase of new equipment for the fire department.

The necessity for the equipment was argued by several West Jefferson citizens, including Mayor Matt Stutson, who stated that the plan of receiving money from the dog track appeared as the only means of securing the necessary funds to purchase new apparatus.

One of these days a lot of very modern people will wake up to the fact that they can get a coat of wholesome tan as well from sunshine as from ultraviolet lamps.

Oh! for the Life of a Sailor

These "modern young scions of wealthy American families receive a cordial welcome as they report on board Count Felix Von Luckner's four-mast schooner Mopelia, to take over their new roles as sailors on a two-months' cruise in southern waters. The famous German sea raider of the World War is shown personally welcoming the boys, most of whom are enrolled in Eastern universities.

DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY HAS ENFORCEMENT RECORD

WASHINGTON—When the treasury department relinquished control of prohibition June 30 Secretary Mellon's department had set up a new record in enforcement activities by the arrest of 68,163 persons for violation of the Volstead act during the fiscal year.

In addition the government forces seized 8,778 automobiles, 1,320,000 gallons of distilled spirits and 4,800,000 gallons of malt spirits. While comparable figures were not available for the preceding year officials said new records had been set in each case.

Seizure of stills numbered 24,373, an increase of about 7,000 as compared to the 1929 fiscal year, and by far the largest number since the prohibition law was put on the statute books. There was a uniform rate of still seizure, about 2,000 a month throughout the year.

The South-eastern states led in number of stills seized but officials said a majority of the raids in this territory, far-famed for its moonshiners, resulted in the capture of comparatively small plants, whereas in some of the big centers of population like New York, Chicago, Detroit and other metropolitan areas a few number of larger capacity outfits were taken.

In the district including Virginia, North and South Carolina 427 stills were taken. Many of these stills were of the old fashioned moonshine type operated prior to prohibition to avoid the whiskey tax. In Southern Florida and Georgia 272 stills were taken, 119 in Louisiana, Mississippi and Northern Florida, and 89 in Maryland, the District of Columbia and Delaware. Only 62 stills were taken corn sugar alcohol a day. These are the stills which furnish the bootlegger his chief source of supply at present.

Fifty per cent of the stills seized had a capacity of less than 100 gallons while there were 5 percent with capacities of over 500 gallons. Only two percent of the stills captured were used to "clear" industrial alcohol. This was taken by officials to mean that diversions of industrial alcohol have reached a minimum and that bootleg alcohol is now used in preparation of what the drinking public consumes.

Much of the effectiveness of the treasury's efforts in making bootleg arrests and seizures was made balanced, however, by the backlog of the courts to handle the stills with dispatch. The year began with a serious congestion of court dockets, although exact figures have not yet been made public by the justice department.

The astrologers may be a superstitious ignorant outfit, but their horoscopes for some time have seemed to have about as high a batting average as the scientific forecasts of the business experts.

Did you ever stop to think
EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Okla.

THAT the greatest menace to city government today is a neglect on the part of some citizens to do their duty.

They are responsible in most cases for the way the city is governed. Most of them take a few minutes on election day to vote for some man; some of them don't even take the trouble to vote.

If the officers elected ask for a little co-operation and support, their requests fall upon deaf ears. They say, "We are too busy to help. You were elected to run the city, why don't you do it?"

At the same time they find no trouble in getting time to find fault with everything that is done. The average city will have just as good government as they try to get.

Citizens should recognize and appreciate the responsibilities of citizenship and should do their part. City government always will be dominated by those who are constantly and persistently active. If the good citizens are as active as they should be, it will be good; if they are not, the grafters will take charge.

NEW STATE GAME BIRD FARM

The Division of Conservation a few days ago purchased a 430 acre farm six miles north of Urbana in Champaign County, to be devoted exclusively to pheasant and Hungarian partridge propagation. The deal is being financed from hunting license money.

Tom Nash, chief of the bureau of game bird propagation, after a long search, picked this farm as particularly adaptable to game bird culture. He is an authority of national recognition. He will move his headquarters from the Wellington game farm to the Urbana farm, and will have charge of both, as well as the game birds farm at Roosevelt game preserve in Scioto county.

The new farm is expected to more than double the game bird restocking activities in Ohio.

REFRIGERATOR MOTOR TRUCK

The Division of Markets of the Department of Agriculture reports that one of the most interesting and unusual occurrences on the Columbus Produce Market this season was the appearance, for the first time of a refrigerator motor truck, which came here from Canton.

This car has been used so far to haul vegetables to the markets in Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Youngstown and Columbus. The vegetables which were in the car when it came to the Columbus market were crisp and fresh as compared to those which are hauled a similar distance in an ordinary truck.

This truck was of unusually large size being similar in this respect to a moving van. It was made of metal on the outside and wood veneer on the inside with four or five inch dead air spaces on top and sides and bottom and a false slatted floor. Ice bunkers were built in the front and both sides with a total capacity of three thousand pounds of ice. The rear was closed but provided with a tight fitting door through which the vegetables are loaded and unloaded.

The use of refrigerator trucks may become common in a few years or they may not prove at all practical. In any case, it is of interest to record the first appearance of such a vehicle on the Columbus market.

TRANSPORTATION CHANGES
It is hard to realize how rapidly changes are taking place in our transportation system of this country. It has been only a little over a decade since the motor truck came into use as a means of transporting fruits and vegetables to market. Since it was first introduced, its use has increased very rapidly until today a very large part of the fruits and vegetables grown in Ohio are hauled to market via motor trucks. If the use of refrigerator motor trucks becomes practicable, we may experience the development of motor truck hauling to an even greater extent during the next decade than in the last. It would enable growers or distributors to haul perishable products and keep them in good condition for a much longer distance than at present.

Whether or not the refrigerator motor truck becomes of commercial importance as a means of distributing perishable products, it is evident that the ordinary motor truck is being used for longer hauls each year. Many truck loads of fruits and vegetables are being received weekly on the Columbus market from Michigan and other adjoining states.

A NEW GRADING PLAN

The Division of Markets working jointly with the Division of Foods and Dairies is trying out a new venture in grading cherries which go direct from grower to canner in northern Ohio. Roy Irons, secretary of The Ohio Canners' Association, in a letter, says in part: "... the results have been so great that they are readily over coming any mistakes, if there have been any. As an illustration, there are many people who have one or two trees in their yard which have never been sprayed. In the past without any system set up to inspect them, they have been unknowingly taken in by the packer and later found to be badly infested with the cherry maggot. It is realized of course, the cherry maggot does not show up on the outside of the cherry until you look into them. One would pass on them as perfect but with the inspection you have set up it is impossible for them to get by, and some rejections of this kind have taken place. Sometimes these rejected cherries would be taken to another packer in the community and your inspectors have followed them up and stopped them. The results of course, are embarrassing to the grower, but it teaches them a lesson and protects the canner and the public from this faulty fruit. This is a great educational campaign in this community and the benefit gained cannot be expressed in words.

We might add further from the results of this inspection, the canner is able to pay a higher price on "best" grade. Therefore, the orchardist who goes to the expense of extensive spraying is getting paid for his labor, and is pleased. We hope inspection can be worked out in all other raw products."

Choosing Foods

BY KATHERINE TINGLEY
Home Demonstration Agent, PRESERVE VEGETABLES

The long period of drought in this section of the county has led to the production of a small amount of garden products. Due to the increased knowledge concerning the value of green vegetables, it is very essential that they are found in the winter, as well as in the summer menus.

In order to be certain that these vegetables will be found in the diet they can be canned when there is a surplus in the garden. In canning vegetables, it is a wise plan to decide upon one method and to carry it through as a combination of methods may result in spoiling products.

BEANS
Use only fresh, tender, string beans for canning. Wash them thoroughly. Remove the strings and tips. If desired, cut the pods into short lengths. Bland from 5 to 10 minutes or until the pods are flexible. Cold dip and pack into jars. Add salt and hot water. Partially seal and process. The length of processing depending upon the method of canning. Seal jars, cool and store.

GREENS
This term includes all plants used for greens, such as spinach, Swiss chard, kale and young beet tops. Use only fresh greens for canning. They should be canned the same day they are picked. If slightly wilted, they may be freshened by being soaked in cold water. After being blanched and packed into jars, cut across the contents with a sharp knife, so that the heat may penetrate more quickly and evenly.

It will not be long until we no longer hear, "I don't like greens" or "I don't like tomatoes" for science has given us a new basis for choosing our food. Until scientists developed the science of food study, about the only basis any one had for selecting food was the tradition and appetite. Our food habits are largely tradition and handed down from one generation to another, or we ate the foods that appeal to our appetite. Results of these methods are usually unsatisfactory, but some individuals seem to thrive in spite of them. If we left out some of the bricks in building a house the result would be the same as when we leave out important foods needed to build strong bodies.

Selection based upon scientific truth is gradually supplanting the old method and our choice will be made with two points in mind—will the food contribute to our health? Will the food enable us to do more work in given time with less fatigue?

Just "to grow" requires food of right kind and amount if strong, healthy bodies are to be built. After growth is attained it still is necessary to have right foods both in quantity and variety to maintain health and provide energy material.

MURDER'S WIFE WATCHES BABE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 11.—While James McNab, 54, lay near death in a hospital here police were investigating the details of his asserted confession of how he killed his common law wife of five years, then kept a remorseful vigil at the side of her body in its crude crypt for seven long days and nights.

The alleged confession, which McNab made to police yesterday, also related how, at the long watch, he slashed his own throat and plunged a knife into his abdomen in a vain attempt to end his life.

Neighbors of the couple, whom they believe were husband and wife, missed Mary Sweeney, 55, two weeks ago. Then they missed McNab. Nothing was thought of it until a peculiar odor was noticed in the vicinity.

An investigation was started and officers found the body of the woman buried beneath the back porch of the home. McNab was found in his bedroom suffering from the knife wounds. All doors and windows of the home were locked.

RINEHART'S FUNERAL HOME

PROBE DEATH OF MAN, GIRL

BERLIN, July 11.—Further investigation by the German Government today will follow Luftansa's report on the loss of five lives when one of the air transportation companies' planes was forced down on the Baltic Sea and capsized while in tow to port.

Capt. Karl Kuring, chief pilot of the flying boat, laid the loss of the five lives, two of these American, to the heavy seas.

In this he was supported by the description of the rescue efforts furnished by Captain Boom of the Dutch Motor Schooner Spes, which dived at Stralsund, Prussia, after battling for hours to drag the victims from the waters.

Americans who perished were identified as Dr. John L. Burkholder of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., and Miss Ruth Northrop, Philadelphia, both of whom had booked passage on the airliner for Stockholm after visiting in Prague and Berlin.

Captain Boome reported he saw a woman feebly struggling against the heavy seas, and that desperate efforts were made by his crew to pull her aboard with boat hooks and lines. Finally her life belt broke, he added, and she vanished beneath the heavy swells.

The Dornier-Wal machine landed on the Baltic Monday afternoon for repairs and was taken in tow by the Danish Motor schooner Maja. The plane capsized, however, pitching the five passengers into the sea. The captain, a mechanic and a Swedish passenger were rescued.

COLUMBUS LAD CRASH VICTIM

CHESTER CLIFFORD, 16, Dies, Three Others Injured As Auto Wheel Breaks.

COLUMBUS, O., July 11.—Chester Clifford, 16, is dead here today and three men are seriously injured as a result of the overturning of the automobile in which they were riding when one of the car's wheels broke. The tragedy occurred late yesterday afternoon about two miles north of Ashley, Delaware-co.

The injured are Louis Clifton, 42, Mansfield, the dead youth's uncle; Delmar Look, Columbus, and John A. Fisher, 25, of Blacklick.

The front wheel of the machine which broke off caused the car to turn end over end and into a ditch.

Mrs. Edna Newmeyer and daughter Mary, and Mary Hays returned Thursday night from a visit with relatives in Pittsburgh.

GUGGENHEIMS AID INVENTOR

NEW YORK, July 11.—The man who hopes to send a rocket to the moon, Dr. Robert G. Goddard, Clark University professor at Worcester, Mass., will receive financial aid from the Guggenheim Fund for the promotion of aeronautics, to aid in his perfection of rocket-propelled machines, it was announced today. The money will be devoted to experiments in perfecting a rocket with which to explore the upper reaches of space which are so far from the earth's surface that human life cannot be sustained because of the rarified air.

The amount of the contribution was not disclosed. An advisory committee under which the experiments will be conducted includes Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Dr. R. A. Millikan of California and Dr. Walter S. Adams of the Mt. Wilson Observatory, California.

As human being cannot extend their investigations into the spaces beyond the earth, Dr. Goddard plans to send rockets into the air, equipped with instruments which will furnish information as to temperatures and other data in the regions miles away.

Dr. Goddard is working on a rocket which might penetrate space near the moon or in its vicinity. The Goddard rockets are to be equipped with parachutes which drop them gently to earth after robot-like equipment has taken photographs and recorded other information.

SENATOR BELIEVES YOUTH WILL WIN HUNGARY CROWN

BY FREDERIC K. ABBOTT.
BUDAPEST, July 10.—Archduke Otto, oldest of the eight children of the late Charles IV and the Empress Zita, will be king of Hungary. The return of Carol II to the throne of Roumania has made this a certainty.

This is the considered opinion of Senator Joseph Veszi, publisher of Pester Lloyd, Budapest's largest newspaper, who says there can be no other course for the country to pursue. Hungary must bring the Hapsburgs back to the throne.

"There is no particular hurry," the Senator said. "We Hungarians are a patient people and everything comes to him who waits. We learned our mistake by hurrying on two occasions in the past—1920 and 1921, when Otto's father, Charles, tried in vain to regain his crown."

"The country was not ready at that time. We were impatient to welcome our king, and our impatience cost us dearly. It cost the life of Charles."

Senator Veszi will admit of no opposition to Otto in all Hungary. "There is no opposition. All Hungary knows that we must have a Hapsburg back on the throne. The country cannot exist without him. Here and there you may hear weak protests from those that have other ideas for the future of Hungary, but these protests are nothing but the voices of small politicians who have axes to grind."

The Senator cited the seizure of the Roumanian by Carol II as a precedent for placing Archduke Otto on the Hungarian throne. "The Roumanian parliament repealed its own act, made in 1926, barring Carol from the country and nullifying his rights to the throne." He reminded this interviewer. "It repealed its act and proclaimed Carol king. Why can not the Hungarian parliament do the same thing?"

"Were we not under pressure when we voted a similar act concerning the house of Hapsburg? Our legislature was compelled to act as it did. But that was done at the very end of the war when the minds and spirits of men were still suffering from the war. They were not clear sighted, and they could not see into the future."

"Now, 12 years after, men are able to see things in proper proportions, and all the world knows that Hungary must have her rightful king."

The publisher said Admiral Horthy is doing and will continue to do all in his power to further the return of the youthful king.

"Admiral Horthy is a great Hungarian, a great patriot. When he knows that the time is ripe he

THAT the greatest menace to city government today is a neglect on the part of some citizens to do their duty.

They are responsible in most cases for the way the city is governed. Most of them take a few minutes on election day to vote for some man; some of them don't even take the trouble to vote.

If the officers elected ask for a little co-operation and support, their requests fall upon deaf ears. They say, "We are too busy to help. You were elected to run the city; why don't you do it?" At the same time they find no trouble in getting time to find fault with everything that is done. The average city will have just as good government as they try to get.

Citizens should recognize and appreciate the responsibilities of citizenship and should do their part. City government always will be dominated by those who are constantly and persistently active. If the good citizens are as active as they should be, it will be good; if they are not, the grafters will take charge.

ETERNAL VIGILANCE IS THE PRICE OF GOOD GOVERNMENT. DON'T FORGET THAT!

DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY HAS ENFORCEMENT RECORD

WASHINGTON—When the treasury department relinquished control of prohibition June 30 Secretary Mellon's department had set up a new record in enforcement activities by the arrest of 68,163 persons for violation of the Volstead act during the fiscal year.

In addition the government forces seized 8,778 automobiles, 1,320,000 gallons of distilled spirits and 4,800,000 gallons of malt spirits. While comparable figures were not available for the preceding year officials said new records had been set in each case.

Seizure of stills numbered 24,373, an increase of about 7,000 as compared to the 1929 fiscal year, and by far the largest number since the prohibition law was put on the statute books. There was a uniform rate of still seizure, about 2,000 a month throughout the year.

The South-eastern states led in number of stills seized but officials said a majority of the raids in this territory, far-famed for its moonshiners, resulted in the capture of comparatively small plants, whereas in some of the big centers of population like New York, Chicago, Detroit and other metropolitan areas a fewer number of larger capacity outfits were taken.

In the district including Virginia, North and South Carolina 427 stills were taken. Many of these stills were of the old fashioned moonshine type operated prior to prohibition to avoid the whiskey tax. In Southern Florida and Georgia 272 stills were taken, 119 in Louisiana, Mississippi and Northern Florida, and 89 in Maryland, the District of Columbia and Delaware. Only 62 stills were taken corn sugar alcohol a day. These are the stills which furnish the bootlegger his chief source of supply at present.

Fifty per cent of the stills seized had a capacity of less than 100 gallons while there were 5 percent with capacities of over 500 gallons. Only two percent of the stills captured were used to "clean" industrial alcohol. This was taken by officials to mean that diversions of industrial alcohol have reached a minimum and that bootleg alcohol is now used in preparation of what the drinking public consumes.

Much of the effectiveness of the treasury's efforts in making heavy arrests and seizures was counterbalanced, however, by the inability of the courts to handle the cases with dispatch. The year ended with a serious congestion of court dockets, although exact figures have not yet been made public by the justice department.

"DOGS" MIGHT GIVE VILLAGE BLAZE NEEDS

City Officials Ask Prosecutor To Permit Them To Aid Revenue For Town.

LONDON, O.—The "dogs" may soon be running wild again Madison county, with the scene of rampage again centered at West Jefferson, where the destruction by fire of a large grain elevator a few days ago caused a public demand for fire protection.

Village officials want the dog races to open at once in order to secure the money for a new fire fighting equipment.

A delegation of West Jefferson citizens, members of the village council, several village officials and officers of the West Jefferson Kennel Club came here yesterday to confer with county prosecutor Jesse E. Strayer regarding the possibility of a four-week meeting of greyhound racing at the West Jefferson track.

It was explained to the prosecutor that $300 a night is guaranteed to the village by the kennel club, for the purchase of new equipment for the fire department.

The necessity for the equipment was argued by several West Jefferson citizens, including Mayor Matt Stutson, who stated that the plan of receiving money from the dog track appeared as the only means of securing the necessary funds to purchase new apparatus.

One of these days a lot of very modern people will wake up to the fact that they can get a coat of wholesome tan as well from sunshine as from ultraviolet lamps.

WARRANTS TO CAUSE ACTION

NEW YORK, July 11.—Three warrants for wayward girls which detectives used to raid what they called the "most luxurious gambling establishment since the time Harry Canfield" today threatened to cause those detectives a lot of trouble.

Many people do not agree with the detectives that George Herrick's 20-room ultra-fashionable apartment, occupying the entire eighth floor of an exclusive Park Avenue building housed gaming tables and catered to the urge of millionaires to risk thousands in prohibited games of chance.

Two detectives with warrants for the arrest of three women forced their way into the apartment house at 270 Park Avenue and ousting the elevator operator ran the car up to Herrick's eighth floor suite. They heard, claim the officers, the battle of dice and the low moans of the losers, broken with the tinkle of ice in glasses they were sure contained illegal liquors. The detectives broke down the door, they said, and found evidence that 60 men and women had fled hastily through other exits leaving behind a collection of opera hats and sticks and evening wraps. They further said they collected 19 table covers marked off for dice games, nine sets of dice, a chemin de fer outfit, croupier's rake and 18 bottles of liquor.

THREE BURNED IN CAR CRASH

SCHNEIDER, Ind., July 11.—Two women and a man were burned to death early today when their automobile crashed into a bridge one mile north of here and burst into flames.

The dead were: Mrs. C. H. McAleer, 42, of Irving, Ky.; Miss Patricia Hoffman, 20, Lyons, Ill., and Harry Horn, 21, son of Mrs. McAleer.

They were driving from Chicago to Irving. The automobile, a large sedan, swerved and struck the side of the bridge and overturned, eyewitnesses said. The gasoline tank split and immediately caught fire. Eyewitnesses were unable to assist the occupants who were pinned within the overturned automobile.

Horn and Miss Hoffman were to be married soon.

KINGSTON

The Salem Woman's Christian Temperance Union met on Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Margaret Wapoles, near Meade. The meeting was opened by all singing "America" with the president, Miss Mary Harpster in the chair, who read the Scripture lesson followed by prayer offered by Mrs. Flora Shoemaker. Miss Harpster read a splendid report from the trip to Hillsboro on the 11th of June and reported that all attending had a most profitable and enjoyable day. The following interesting leaflets were read, "Unseen Factors in the Promotion of Health," read by Mrs. Bessie Miller, "The Road to Health," was read by Mrs. Flora Shoemaker. The roll was called by Miss Margaret Wapoles who acted as secretary in the absence of the regular secretary, Mrs. Lillian Hinton. After the short business session, Mrs. Wapoles assisted by her daughter Elizabeth, served delicious refreshments consisting of ham sandwiches, pickles, potato chips, cream puffs, coffee, mints and nuts. Other members attending besides those on the program were: Mrs. Ora Dunn, Mrs. Elmer Dodd, and daughters, Lulu and Evelyn, Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Mary Evans. The meeting closed with the usual benediction.

Rev. L. V. Harrison, Mrs. Harrison and daughter, Nancy Lee, were visitors to Columbus on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Leslie Lott is having electricity installed in his home on Ing street this week. Mr. N. F. Bond is doing the installing.

Among the Columbus visitors on Wednesday were: Misses Josephine and Letitia Brundige, Mrs. Fannie Baker, Mrs. James Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Shepler, Mrs. H. E. Shepler, Mrs. Elizabeth Eckstein, Miss Mildred Holderman, who spent the day at the Grant Hospital with her mother and reports that she is very much improved and will soon be able to come home.

Mrs. David McCormick and Mr. Charles Brundige motored to Columbus on Wednesday so spend a few days with their sisters, Misses Laura and Kathryn Brundige. Mrs. James Baker and sons, James, Jr. and Robert of Cincinnati arrived on Thursday, June 26 for an extended visit at the home of Mrs. Fannie Baker.

Mr. James D. Wood is quite ill at his home on Woodlyn avenue with paralysis.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church will hold its regular meeting in the community room on Wednesday afternoon, July 9, at 2:30 o'clock. A good attendance is desired. The following members compose the entertaining committee: Mesdames Ida Jones, Florence Jones, Sarah Sims, Jessie Shannon, Fannie Shepler, Laura Raub, Golden Minser, Bessie Sheridan and Julia Baldoser.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. church will hold a market, Saturday morning, beginning at 10 o'clock. This market is to take the place of the silver tea planned at the last meeting.

Misses Ruth and Carrie Shepard and a girl friend all of Columbus were week-end guests of Prof. M. A. Shepard, Mrs. Shepard and son Bobbie.

Miss Shirley Donaldson of Columbus was the week-end guest of her brother and sister Harry Bookwalter and Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Bookwalter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Allison of Toledo, O., were the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Smith and family on the Fourth of July and Miss Katherine Smith accompanied them when they returned to Toledo on Sunday. She will stay until September.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Kruger and Mrs. J. H. Jolley of Hamden, O., were business visitors to Kingston on Thursday. Mrs. Jolley was here to put in her application to teach the 8th grade of school.

WHITE DUCK PANTS

Booth Tarkington has sung the poetry of Seventeen, along with its comedy and tragic moments. Many writers have immortalized the small boy. But who shall sing the glory of thirteen with its first pair of white duck trousers?

Boy had grown out of everything in the world with what seemed to Mother a single bound. He was taller than Mother and wearing shoes almost as big as Father's, whereas last week he was only a little boy. Mother was desperately busy canning and getting ready for company, but Boy was in rags which before company could not appear. Aunt volunteered to help Boy choose his clothes. Mother set a financial limit.

Boy returned in white shirt, black belt, shiny black shoes and—the long white ducks. Radiance emanated from him. His delight was contagious; his manners were charming.

Auntie reported that they had cut off a little here and there that they might get two pairs of white ducks instead of one. Boy didn't think socks important any more, but on socks she stood firm. They got cheaper pajamas, however, and though he had neckties enough, and the other pair came out of the budget. Then Boy invited her to have ice-cream and proudly they came home.

"Oh, Boy!" squealed the small girl across the way. "What a beautiful suit! How lovely you look! When did you get it?" Boy probably wanted to brain her, but after all she was a very little girl, not even in school yet, and he was, oh, extremely big. "Aw, just now," he said and slithered through his own front door.

Sister must see and Mother admire and Father admit to a grown-up fellowship. In an afternoon the world was changed.

ANOTHER FEDERAL PARK

The Department of the Interior is looking into the proposal that the government take over 2,000,000 acres of the reclaimed everglades as a national park. A Baltimore citizen who urges such action declares that if the land is not set aside soon and looked after by the government, it will be ruined by the cutting of trees and the starting of fires for such trivial purposes as driving rabbits out of the underbrush.

The Everglades are a unique region, with vegetation and wild life of many kinds not found elsewhere in this country. It would be a great pity to have the peculiar charm of the place destroyed. Uncle Sam can always use another park. Every tract taken over in the past has soon proved its value. If the question were put up to motor tourists, there would be but one answer.

OFFICE HOURS

An International labor conference at Geneva, after voting in favor of the eight-hour day for industrial employees, proceeded to do the same thing for office employees. The limit for white-collar workers is fixed at 48 hours a week.

This is all right for Europe, and doubtless means progress. But suppose the standard were applied literally in America. Just imagine our office and store people working a full eight-hour day, six days a week, without any half-day off in the middle of the week and with only Sunday for a week-end. Why, it would be the end of golf, not to mention what it would do to the motor and movie industries.

BURNING COFFEE

In Sao Paulo, the big coffee-producing state of Brazil, it is proposed to destroy 4,500,000 bags of coffee out of hold-over stocks and the crops of this and next year. It is low-grade coffee, whose elimination, it is argued, would improve the market for coffee of all grades.

The coffee industry is in a very depressed state, caused partly by world conditions but mainly by the long-continued efforts of the Brazilian planters and government to boost world prices by artificial control. The control has failed as did the British control of world rubber prices, and the coffee regions are left with vast surpluses on their hands.

Our country, though the world's greatest coffee consumer, would not be affected directly, since the grades considered are already barred from entrance here under the pure food law. Indirectly, by creating more demand in other markets for high grade coffee, the destruction of low grades would probably make our morning cup cost more.

The proposal raises the question whether deliberate destruction of food-stuffs is ever justifiable. There are great numbers of people in many lands who would like that coffee.

THE NEW ROUMANIAN COURT JESTER

"WHERE'S EMILY?"

by CAROLYN WELLS

CHAPTER XXVI.

THEY were baiting him, and he was mad, but what could he do? He could arrest the boldest bandit, if he could catch him, he could tackle the biggest bully in the gang, but against these two irritators he was powerless.

But this only gave a new zip to his bulldog grip.

Succeed he would, and he pulled out a pile of large and legal-looking documents, hoping they would be divorce proceedings at last.

"Oh, my heavens, don't spill 'em about so!" and Betty smilingly stooped to the floor to retrieve the lot, which, incidentally, she had herself jarred from his uncertain hand.

"Here, I'll show 'em to you. These, you see, are Miss Duane's will."

"Her wills?"

"There were at least two dozen. 'Yes; she's of a vacillating disposition, and she makes a new will every few weeks, you see. But she keeps the old ones; then, if she prefers a bad number, all she has to do is to burn up the later ones, and there you are!'"

"Yes, miss; I see. Now, which is the latest one?"

"Oh, the one leaving the money to the Swami! I thought he sent you here."

It was a chance shot of Betty's, and she was utterly amazed to see the flood of red that surged over the countenance of the miserable man.

"There, there," she said, "don't take it so hard. No harm done. Be yourself."

But Lawlor had had enough. This triangle he was part of was too many for him, and he rose and tramped downstairs without a word.

On the veranda, he stepped up to Abel Collins, and said, his own man again now, "I have to report to the chief. I'll be over again later."

And then he turned to Swami Lal Singh, who lounged gracefully in a swing with Nell, and said quite clearly:

"I didn't find any papers at all relating to Atlantic City."

Lawlor departed, swinging his broad shoulders with a general air of indifference, and Betty turned to Lal Singh and said, sweetly:

"Why did he tell you that he didn't find the Atlantic City matter?"

Lal Singh vouchsafed no verbal reply, but spread his long, brown hands in a gesture of unmistakable denial of any knowledge of the subject.

"Oh, yes, Lally, you do know!" and Betty shook a pinky forefinger at him.

She was the only one who dared trifle with the dignity of the Hindu, and though he writhed under it, he could find no good way to show his resentment.

"It's all poppycock," declared Abel Collins, "this searching rooms and making insinuations about Emily. Let them find her first—that's what we asked the police to do. Then, having found her, it's quite time enough to bring accusations or insinuations or implications of her wrongdoing. Even if Emily was with Mrs. Pennington at the time of her death no assumptions are possible until we can hear some account of it from Emily herself, or from some reliable witness."

"Good for you, Abel," said Aunt Judy. "That's the way to talk. Can't you tell the police people that, and head them off from messing around in Emily's rooms? Though I saw to it that there was little there to interest them."

Aunt Judy spoke casually, as she always did, of her own defiance of law and order, but Pete Gibby noticed the Oriental's eyebrows draw together slightly and his nostrils quiver, as was his habit when deeply interested.

"The hoky-poky guy is in this, somehow," Pete concluded, and let it go at that.

"Yes," Collins returned, "I shall go around now and see Jennings, and tell him his first duty is to find a missing person, and after that is time enough to call her to account."

"I won't have my Emily called a person," said Betty.

"Everybody who is missing is a person," Pete informed her. "They have no Bureau of Missing Ladies and Gentlemen, nor even a Bureau of Missing People. They become persons as soon as they are missing."

"I don't see the use of any such bureau, whatever its name," Betty declared. "It never finds anybody. It just keeps on letting them be missing."

"A missing person by the river's brink is missing person is to them, and it is nothing more," Pete agreed with her.

"Let's try to trace her," Lamb said after one of his long silences. "I mean, try to reconstruct, and each suggest something."

"Go ahead, Lambkin," Rodney said.

He felt little interest in the suggestion, but he liked to keep the talk on the subject that engrossed his every thought and impulse.

"Well, we all know that Emily started for the hospital."

"Yes," Pete said, "that must be granted, for she told Rod she was going and Prall saw her start."

"Yes; then, to get to the hospital she had to cross the big ravine and the little ravine on their bridges, before she could strike off cross-lots."

"Yes."

"Now we have two ways to look. Either she met Pauline on the bridge as she went, or she went and came back and met Polly on the return trip."

"But she never reached the hospital."

"That can be explained by the assumption that she changed her mind about going. It was darker than she had thought, or she realized her diamonds were a bit conspicuous, or the whim seized her to go back home. There's no accounting for Emily's sudden changes of intention."

"True enough," Rod said this, he was becoming greatly interested. "Now, Eurt, Emily and Polly met on the bridge. I'm not sure it matters whether Emily was going or returning. They must have met there. Moreover, it seems to me it must have been just at the time Jim was over at the Wallace shop, buying his cigarettes. Otherwise, he would have seen them."

"That's all right," Lamb conceded. "Then, I hold that Emily asked Pauline to go to the hospital with her. This, of course, presupposes they met as Emily was going, and that's most plausible, anyway. Then, I hold that Pauline unexpectedly flew into one of her tantrums at Emily's suggestion of her going to see a baby, and either flew at Emily's throat or turned to throw herself over the wall."

"Well, that's concisely put," Rodney said, slowly, "and it may be the truth. But, then, where's Emily?"

"Now, we've got to bring in the bandits. It seems a coincidence that they should be right there on the spot, but they may have been skulking about for days, waiting for a chance to kidnap Emily. A wealthy, petted girl, and a bride-to-be at that, is fair game for any kidnaper. The necklace was incidental. Of course, if Pauline jerked off that bit, she did it in a frenzied clutch as she went over. The scarf went at the same time. But what the abductors wanted was the girl. If she was wearing diamonds, so much the better."

"These are hard theories to swallow," Rodney said; "but an alternative I can't think of Emily's seeing Pauline go over, and then herself running away to escape suspicion of having pushed her over!"

"You're all wrong," Aunt Judy said. "This is more like it. If your kidnappers really were hanging about they simply took that opportunity to nab Emily. Polly, of course, was in the way, so they pitched her overboard."

"Why didn't they wait until Polly had gone on and Emily was alone? Or until Emily had gone on alone?"

"They didn't know Emily's plans, they didn't know but she'd turn back with Polly or Polly would go on with her. And, besides, I'm not entirely in their confidence."

Aunt Judy smiled. In accordance with Pete's admonition she was trying to keep up the morale of the crowd, and, too, she was by nature hopeful, and was by no means ready to concede that they had lost Emily forever.

Sayre was hopeful and despondent by turns. Lamb bent all his energies to doing what he could to cheer or divert Rodney, and he was in a measure successful.

The afternoon wore on. Callers came and went. Tea was served on the terrace and kindly neighbors spoke words of cheer as they consumed buttered muffins.

The Swami, having consumed rather more than his full share of these asked Nell to go for a walk, which she did.

They went round the rose garden and came to anchor in an arbor. "What nonsense they talk about the disappearance of Miss Duane," was the Hindu's comment.

"Do they?" said Nell. "What do you think, Lal Singh?"

Actor's "Lines"

The word "role," meaning an actor's part in a play, is a variation of "roll." The reference is to the long roll of manuscript containing his part which in the earlier days of the stage was supplied to each actor.

Phrase of Unknown Origin

The famous proverb "United we stand, divided we fall" is not attributed to any one person. It would be difficult, if not impossible to trace it to its source. George Pope Morris, who died in 1894, quotes it in "The Flag of Our Union"—Pathfinder.

Wrong Diet May Cause Dandruff

Cleanliness and Correction of Poor Elimination Are Effective as Cures.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health New York City.

DANDRUFF is one of the most common diseases of the scalp. It is caused by over-activity of the oil-producing glands of the scalp. This increased activity of the oil glands of the scalp causes excessive greasiness of hair. In consequence, there may be a constant shower of dry, white or yellow, fine scales from the scalp.

Dandruff is known to the medical profession as "pityriasis capitis." Pityriasis is derived from the Greek word meaning "bran." You will see that the description, "Bran-like scales on the head," is well chosen.

There are diseases of the skin on other parts of the body, where multitudes of scales form. After these are brushed off others appear. Persons who suffer from constipation are apt to have this symptom. In the past it has been thought to be caused by a germ, but it would seem to be more a matter of wrong eating. Excessive consumption of fats, like butter, cream or pork, will aggravate the trouble.

Keeping the scalp and hair immaculately clean is the only treatment that will bring relief. For a man this is an easy matter, but for the woman with long hair it is much more difficult of treatment. It is well to wash the hair twice a week, with massage of the scalp. Alcohol of strong bay rum should be applied freely and thoroughly rubbed into the scalp.

In washing the hair use a good soap. There are so-called "hard water soaps," made to form a satisfactory lather in hard water. Wet the hair, work up a good lather, rub it into the scalp with the fingers, and then rinse it out well. Do this a second time, for a second washing will remove all the remaining oil and scales.

One of the secrets of a good shampoo lies in a series of thorough rinsings, using an abundance of warm water. Unless the soap is removed entirely it will add substance to the already dandruff-covered scalp. It is wise for a person who is

Booth Tarkington has sung the poetry of Seventeen, along with its comedy and tragic moments. Many writers have immortalized the small boy. But who shall sing the glory of thirteen with its first pair of white duck trousers?

Boy had grown out of everything in the world with what seemed to Mother a single bound. He was taller than Mother and wearing shoes almost as big as Father's, whereas last week he was only a little boy. Mother was desperately busy canning and getting ready for company, but Boy was in rags which before company could not appear. Aunt volunteered to help Boy choose his clothes. Mother set a financial limit.

Boy returned in white shirt, black belt, shiny black shoes and—the long, white ducks. Radiance emanated from him. His delight was contagious; his manners were charming.

Auntie reported that they had cut off a little here and there that they might get two pairs of white ducks instead of one. Boy didn't think socks important any more, but on socks she stood firm. They got cheaper pajamas, however, and though he had neckties enough, and the other pair came out of the budget. Then Boy invited her to have ice-cream and proudly they came home.

"Oh, Boy!" squealed the small girl across the way. "What a beautiful suit! How lovely you look! When did you get it?" Boy probably wanted to brain her, but after all she was a very little girl, not even in school yet, and he was, on extremely big. "Aw, just now," he said and shivered through his own front door.

Sister must see and Mother admire and Father admit to a grown-up fellowship. In an afternoon the world was changed.

ANOTHER FEDERAL PARK

The Department of the Interior is looking into the proposal that the government take over 2,000,000 acres of the reclaimed everglades as a national park. A Baltimore citizen who urges such action declares that if the land is not set aside soon and looked after by the government, it will be ruined by the cutting of trees and the starting of fires for such trivial purposes as driving rabbits out of the underbrush.

The Everglades are a unique region, with vegetation and wild life of many kinds not found elsewhere in this country. It would be a great pity to have the peculiar charm of the place destroyed. Uncle Sam can always use another park. Every tract taken over in the past has soon proved its value. If the question were put up to motor tourists, there would be but one answer.

OFFICE HOURS

An International labor conference at Geneva, after voting in favor of the eight-hour day for industrial employees, proceeded to do the same thing for office employees. The limit for white-collar workers is fixed at 48 hours a week.

This is all right for Europe, and doubtless means progress. But suppose the standard were applied literally in America. Just imagine our office and store people working a full eight-hour day, six days a week, without any half-day off in the middle of the week and with only Sunday for a week-end. Why, it would be the end of golf, not to mention what it would do to the motor and movie industries.

BURNING COFFEE

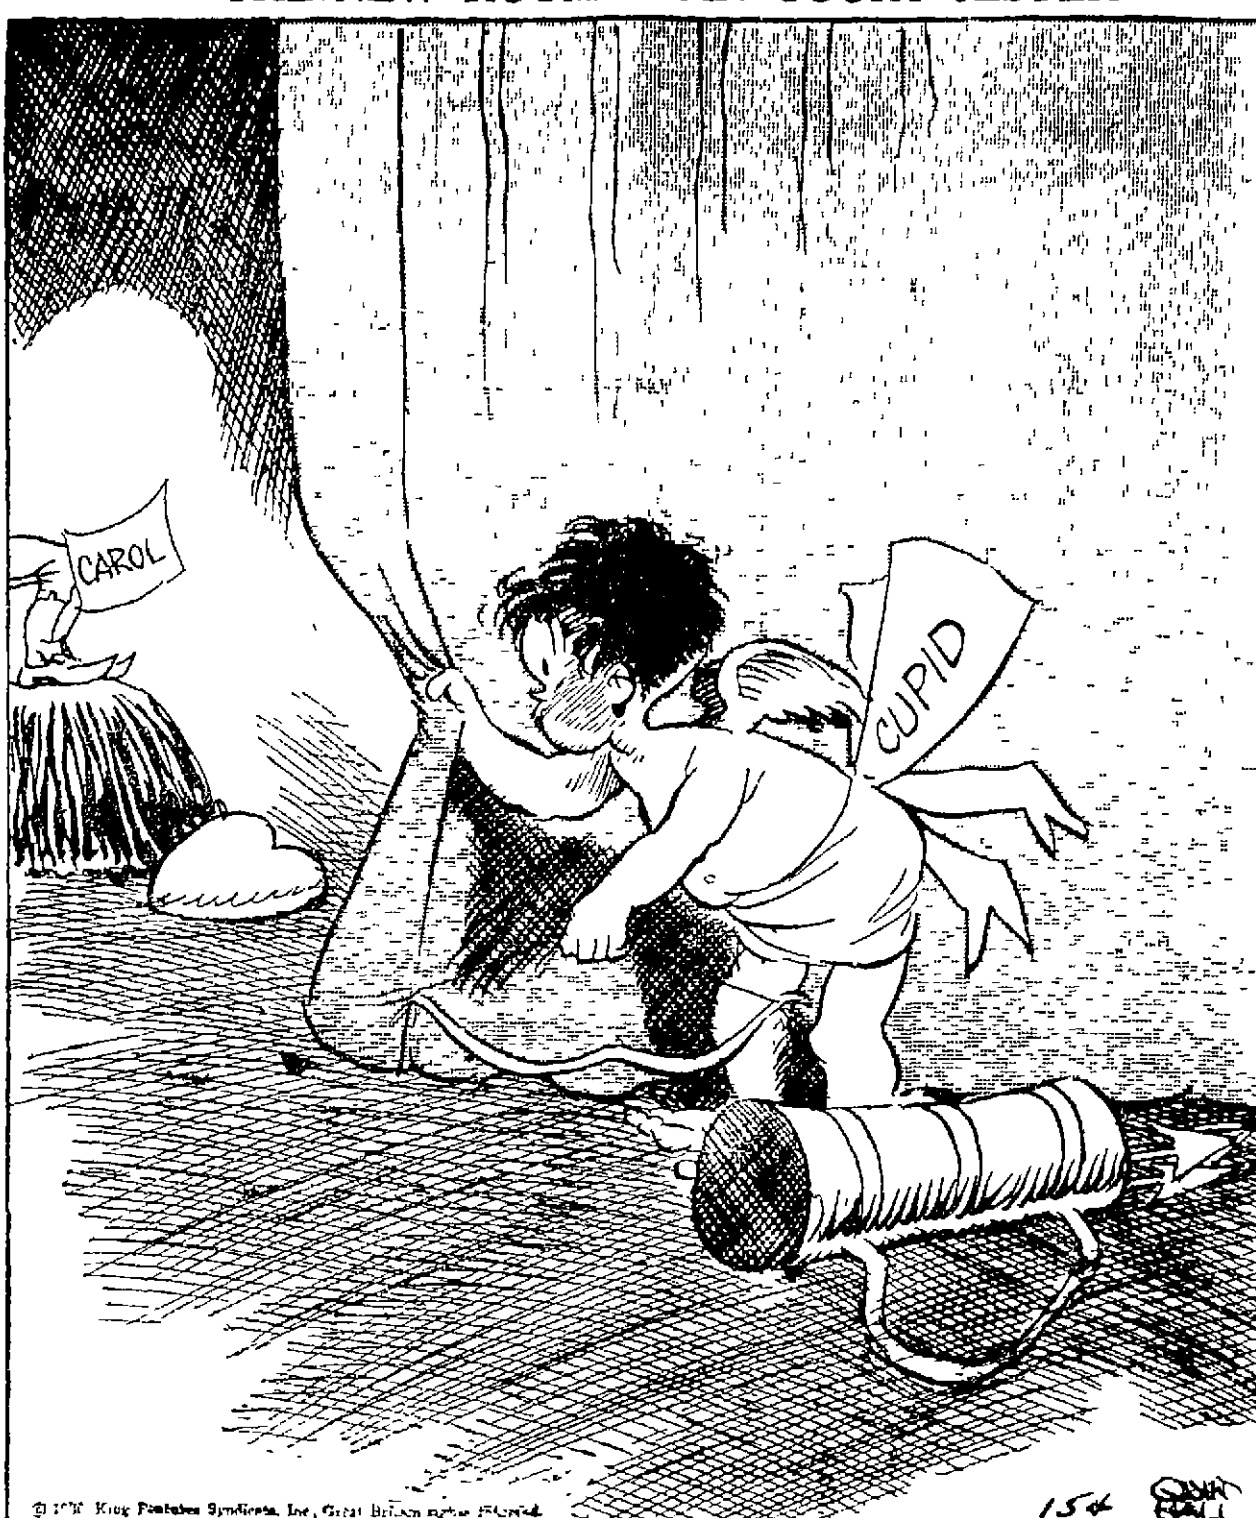

In Sao Paulo, the big coffee-producing state of Brazil, it is proposed to destroy 4,500,000 bags of coffee out of hold-over stocks and the crops of this and next year. It is low-grade coffee, whose elimination, it is argued, would improve the market for coffee of all grades.

The coffee industry is in a very depressed state, caused partly by world conditions but mainly by the long-continued efforts of the Brazilian planters and government to boost world prices by artificial control. The control has failed as did the British control of world rubber prices, and the coffee regions are left with vast surpluses on their hands.

Our country, though the world's greatest coffee consumer, would not be affected directly, since the grades considered are already barred from entrance here under the pure food law. Indirectly, by creating more demand in other markets for high grade coffee, the destruction of low grades would probably make our morning cup cost more.

The proposal raises the question whether deliberate destruction of food-stuffs is ever justifiable. There are great numbers of people in many lands who would like that coffee.

"WHERE'S EMILY?"

CHAPTER XXVI

THEY were bawling him, and he was mad, but what could he do? He could arrest the boldest bandit, if he could catch him, he could tackle the biggest bully in the gang, but against these two irritators he was powerless.

Emily was with Mrs. Pennington at the time of her death no assumptions are possible until we can hear some account of it from Emily herself, or from some reliable witness."

"Good for you, Abel," said Aunt Judy. "That's the way to talk. Can't you tell the police people that, and head them off from messing around in Emily's rooms? Though I saw to it that there was little there to interest them."

Aunt Judy spoke casually, as if she always did, of her own defiance of law and order, but Pete Gibbs noticed the Oriental's eyebrows drawn together slightly and his nostrils quiver, as was his habit when deeply interested.

"The hoky-poky guy is in this, somehow," Pete concluded, and let it go at that.

"Yes," Collins returned, "I shall go around now and see Jennings, and tell him his first duty is to find a missing person, and after that is time enough to call her to account."

"I won't have my Emily called a person," said Betty.

"Everybody who is missing is a person," Pete informed her. "They have no Bureau of Missing Ladies and Gentlemen, nor even a Bureau of Missing People. They become persons as soon as they are missing."

"I don't see the use of any such bureau, whatever its name," Betty declared. "It never finds anybody. It just keeps on letting them be missing."

"A missing person is to them, and it is nothing more," Pete agreed with her.

"Let's try to trace her," Lamb said after one of his long silences. "I mean, try to reconstruct, and each suggest something."

"Go ahead, Lambkin," Rodney said.

He felt little interest in the suggestion, but he liked to keep the talk on the subject that engrossed his every thought and impulse.

"Well, we all know that Emily started for the hospital."

"Yes," Pete said, "that must be granted; for she told Rod she was going, and Prall saw her start."

"Yes; then, to get to the hospital she had to cross the big ravine and the little ravine on her bridges, before she could strike off cross-lots."

"Now we have two ways to look. Either she met Pauline on the bridge as she went, or she went and came back and met Polly on the return trip."

"But she never reached the hospital."

"That can be explained by the assumption that she changed her mind about going. It was darker than she had thought, or she realized her diamonds were a bit conspicuous, or the whim seized her to go back home. There's no accounting for it. Emily's sudden changes of intention."

"True enough," Rod said, "he was becoming greatly interested. 'Now, Burt, Emily and Polly met on the bridge. I'm not sure it matters whether Emily was going or returning. They must have met there. Moreover, it seems to me it must have been just at the time Jim was over at the Wallace shop, buying his cigarettes. Otherwise, he would have seen them."

"That's all right," Lamb conceded. "Then, I hold that Emily asked Pauline to go to the hospital with her. This, of course, presupposes they met as Emily was going, and that's most plausible, anyway. Then, I hold that Pauline unexpectedly flew into one of her tantrums at Emily's suggestion of her going to see a baby, and either flew at Emily's throat or turned to throw herself over the rail."

"Well, that's concisely put," Rodney said, slowly, "and it may be the truth. But, then, where's Emily?"

"Now, we've got to bring in the bandits. It seems a coincidence that they should be right there, on the spot, but they may have been skulking about for days, waiting for a chance to kidnap Emily. A wealthy, petted girl, and a bride-to-be at that, is fair game for any kidnaper. The necklace was incidental. Of course, if Pauline jerked off that bit, she did it in a frenzied clutch as she went over. The scarf went at the same time. But what the abductors wanted was the girl. If she was wearing diamonds, so much the better."

"These are hard theories to swallow," Rodney said; "but as an alternative I can't think of Emily's seeing Pauline go over, and then herself running away to escape suspicion of having pushed her over."

"You're all wrong," Aunt Judy said. "This is more like it. If your kidnappers really were hanging about, they simply took that opportunity to nab Emily. Polly, of course, was in the way, so they pitched her overboard."

"Why didn't they wait until Polly had gone on and Emily was alone? Or until Emily had gone on alone?"

"They didn't know Emily's plans, they didn't know but she'd turn back with Polly or Polly would go on with her. And, besides, I'm not entirely in their confidence."

Aunt Judy smiled. In accordance with Pete's admonition she was trying to keep up the morale of the crowd, and too, was by nature hopeful, and was by no means ready to concede that they had lost Emily forever.

Sayre was hopeful and despondent by turns. Lamb bent all his energies to doing what he could to cheer or divert Rodney, and he was in a measure successful.

The afternoon wore on. Callers came and went. It was served on the terrace and kindly neighbors spoke words of cheer as they consumed buttered muffins.

The Swami, having consumed rather more than his full share of these asked Nell to go for a walk, which she did.

They went round the rose garden and came to anchor in the arboreal shade, where they talked about the disappearance of Miss Deane, "was the Hindu's comment."

"Do they?" said Nell. "What do you think, Lal Singh?"

WARRANTS TO CAUSE ACTION

NEW YORK, July 11.—Three warrants for wayward girls which detectives used to raid what they called the "most luxurious gambling establishment since the time Harry Canfield" today threatened to cause those detectives a lot of trouble.

Many people do not agree with the detectives that George Herrick's 20-room ultra-fashionable apartment occupying the entire eighth floor of an exclusive Park Avenue building housed gaming tables and catered to the urge of millionaires to risk thousands in prohibited games of chance.

Two detectives with warrants for the arrest of three women forced their way into the apartment house at 270 Park Avenue and ousting the elevator operator ran the car up to Herrick's eighth floor suite.

They heard, claim the officers, the battle of dice and the low moans of the losers, broken with the tinkle of ice in glasses they were sure contained illegal liquors. The detectives broke down the door, they said, and found evidence that 60 men and women had fled hastily through other exits leaving behind a collection of opera hats and sticks and evening wraps. They further said they collected 19 table covers marked off for dice games, nine sets of dice, a chemin de fer outfit, croupier's rake and 18 bottles of liquor.

THREE BURNED IN CAR CRASH

SCHNEIDER, Ind., July 11.—Two women and a man were burned to death early today when their automobile crashed into a bridge one mile north of here and burst into flames.

The dead were: Mrs. C. H. McAleer, 42, of Irving, Ky.; Miss Patricia Hoffman, 20, Lyons, Ill., and Harry Horn, 21, son of Mrs. McAleer.

They were driving from Chicago to Irving.

The automobile, a large sedan, swerved and struck the side of the bridge and overturned, eyewitnesses said. The gasoline tank split and immediately caught fire. By-standers were unable to assist the occupants who were pinned within the overturned automobile.

Horn and Miss Hoffman were to be married soon.

KINGSTON

The Salem Woman's Christian Temperance Union met on Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Margaret Wapoles, near Meade. The meeting was opened by all singing "America" with the president, Miss Mary Harpster in the chair, who read the Scripture lesson followed by prayer offered by Mrs. Flora Shoemaker. Miss Harpster read a splendid report from the trip to Hillsboro on the 11th of June and reported that all attending had a most profitable and enjoyable day. The following interesting leaflets were read, "Unseen Factors in the Promotion of Health," read by Mrs. Bessie Miller, "The Road to Health," was read by Mrs. Flora Shoemaker. The roll was called by Miss Margaret Wapoles who acted as secretary in the absence of the regular secretary, Mrs. Lillian Hinton. After the short business session, Mrs. Wapoles assisted by her daughter Elizabeth served delicious refreshments consisting of ham sandwiches, pickles, potato chips, cream puffs, coffee, mints and nuts. Other members attending besides those on the program were: Mrs. Ora Dumm, Mrs. Elmer Dodd, and daughters, Lulu and Evon, Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Mary Evans. The meeting closed with the usual benediction.

Rev. L. V. Harverson, Mrs. Harverson and daughter, Nancy Lee, were visitors to Columbus on Wednesday afternoon.

MANY YEARS TO PAY DEBT

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH

WASHINGTON — Thirty-five years will elapse before the United States completely liquidates its payments to Germany as a result of seizure of ships, a radio station and several thousand patents during the war, and before all American claimants against Germany will be paid in full, it was learned at the treasury today.

James W. Remick, arbiter, already made a valuation of $74,243,000 for ninety-four ships and tentative awards will be certified to the treasury within a short time.

On receipt of these awards the beneficiaries will be furnished blank forms by the treasury and they will be required to make formal application for payment to Secretary Mellon under the provisions of the settlement of the war claims act of 1928.

Machinery is now being set up under the direction of Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills and within a few weeks formal regulations under which claims will be made will be forthcoming.

Claims must be filed by the applicants within two years of the official certification of the awards. Payment of tentative awards is authorized up to a maximum of $25,000,000, that is, the ship-claimants after their applications have been verified, will receive approximately one-third of their probate share of that amount.

When all awards for the radio station at Sayville, L. I. and the patents, including part of the so-called chemical foundation patents, have been made, in addition to awards for ships, the secretary of the treasury authorized to pay 50 percent of the claims.

The remainder of the payments to the ship, radio station and chemical claimants, will be made as money is received from Germany due under the reparations settlement for mixed claims.

The estimated balance due from Germany is approximately $250, 300,000.

So far about $100,000,000 has been paid to American private claimants against Germany as a result of awards of the mixed claim commission.

Approximately $125,000,000 is yet due on awards already made or others that will be certified later by the claims commission. All awards so far made under $100, 000, and those for death and personal injury claims have been paid in full. For claims of over $100, 000 estimated at about $138,000,
000, $77,000,000 has been paid.

A limitation of $100,000,000 was fixed by Congress for payments to German claimants for ships, patents and radio stations. With the ship valuation already fixed about three fourths of that maximum has been used. Should the arbiter determine that the patents and radio station had a valuation of over $25,000,000 it would be necessary for him to pro-rate the $100,000,000 to all claimants, thus reducing the amount that the shipowners eventually would receive, unless Congress provided an additional appropriation.

In addition to the private claims the United States government had a balance due on army of occupation costs of $193,936,000, September 1, 1929. Beginning on that date under the Young plan the United States will receive an average annuity of 25,300,000 Reichsmarks for thirty-seven years in liquidation of these costs.

And There You Are
"Kindly tell me," requested a questioner to Will Bang, "exactly what is 'Hokum'?" "Certainly," winked the editor, "Hokum is appearance and appearance is hooey and hooey is bologna and bologna is bunk; and bunk, young fellow, is merely another name for hokum."

WARD'S SCORE FIVE RUNS IN FINAL DEFEATING LUTHERANS

Timely Hits With Runners on the Paths Decided Hotly-Contested Battle—Hutchinson Connects For Two Doubles and Triple.

After playing a hard fought contest and holding the Wardmen to a 1 to 0 score for eight innings, the first part of the ninth proved fatal to the Lutheran Brotherhood at Mason's Park Thursday evening when they were defeated by the deputy boys by the score of 6 to 2.

All the deputy's punch was packed into the ninth frame when they marked up five tallies to win the game. J. Davis and Shorty Imbler got on the sacks and were finally run around to third and second. Then Fred Watts drove a beautiful hit into the outfield and brought Davis and Imbler across the rubber. Tom Rehick reached base and Butler stepped to the plate and drove him ahead. Then Fred Watts and Butler were driven in by Eddie Haler who also had a clean hit in the outfield.

During this last period of the game the Lutherans also obtained all their runs. John Rhoads reached base safely and then stole second, and finally was driven in home. Miller and Trautman also scored during this stanza.

The Wardmen garnered their other run in the fourth inning by clean line drives, which were too hot for the churchmen. Many times, batters reached the bases safely, but before they could reach home both sides were retired. The game was featured with beautiful catches made in the outfield by Pinky Wilson who many times ran many yards out of his territory to get a putout.

The biggest feature of the game was Buck Hutchinson's batting. During the game Buck had credited to him two doubles and a triple out of four times at bat.

All in all the Ward-Lutheran game was one of the finest and cleanest demonstrations of ball playing that has been seen played on the lot for many days.

With this defeat the deputy's boys hold second place in the league standing and the Lutherans are fast entering the depths of the cellar with the Modern Woodmen.

Tonight the Coca Colas and Doggy Ward's will play off a tie, which was to have been played in the first round. The game promises to be thrilling and interesting if Thursday's game is a criterion.

Mandell Trains to Defend Lightweight Crown

Sammy Mandell, world lightweight boxing champion, is caught by the camera in several training poses as he began serious preparation to defend his crown against Al Singer, New York threat, at his camp at Orangeburg, N. Y. The two are slated to meet at Yankee Stadium July 17.

NINTH INNING RALLY FAILS TO WIN FOR CONTAINER 9

Coca Colas Victors Over C. C. of A. By Score of 9-6—Frank Lynch and Ray Brungs Tangle on Mound.

A rally in the ninth when they scored four runs making a total of six, almost won the recreation ball game for the C. C. of A. from the Cokes Thursday evening at Utilities park, but in the meantime the batters had pounded the ball all over the lot to score nine runs.

The Cokes obtained their lead in the first inning when they scored their first three runs. These runs were garnered due to several clean hits smacked to the outfield.

The game Thursday evening was hard fought and clean played throughout and even though there were five errors recorded against each team, nevertheless it seemed to on-lookers that both teams played very tight ball.

Gene Smith, Cokes' short-stop, made several nice plays when he picked up several hard grounders and shot them to first base for a put out.

The old ball started rolling again in the fourth for the Cokes as during this stanza, the straw-berry gang started hurling the ball around to each other and threw the ball away in many instances, and as a result, taking into consideration the fact that the batters had obtained several nice hits, two runs were brought across the rubber during this fray, and the score was 5 to 2. Then the pop-makers again launched a campaign for more runs, for a better lead, in the fifth and this time set on the ball, as there were almost as many hits scored in this inning by the Cokes as in the other half of the game. About six shot into the outfield during this fray.

The runs were scored, one, two, three and four with no trouble in the least and the batters now thought they had the straw-berry boys, just where they wanted them.

But the worst was yet to come! Almost every one had turned their attention from the game during this last period, as the Cokes had acquired such a lead, that it was impossible for a straw-berry victory now, but about this time the Containers started pounding the ball and as is generally the case, the Cokes muffed several balls and as the outcome four runs were checked for the Containers.

Ray Brungs and Frank Lynch both hurled good ball, as both allowed a man on base on balls and no strike-outs were recorded.

MANY YEARS TO PAY DEBT

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH

WASHINGTON — Thirty-five years will elapse before the United States completely liquidates its payments to Germany as a result of seizure of ships, a radio station and several thousand patents during the war, and before all American claimants against Germany will be paid in full, it was learned at the treasury today.

James W. Remick, arbiter, already made a valuation of $74,243,000 for ninety-four ships and tentative awards will be certified to the treasury within a short time.

On receipt of these awards the beneficiaries will be furnished blank forms by the treasury and they will be required to make formal application for payment to Secretary Mellon under the provisions of the settlement of the war claims act of 1923.

Machinery is now being set up under the direction of Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills and within a few weeks formal regulations under which claims will be made will be forthcoming.

Claims must be filed by the applicants within two years of the official certification of the awards. Payment of tentative awards is authorized up to a maximum of $25,000,000, that is, the ship-claimants after their applications have been verified, will receive approximately one-third of their probate share of that amount.

When all awards for the radio station at Sayville, L. I. and the patents, including part of the so-called chemical foundation patents, have been made, in addition to awards for ships, the secretary of the treasury authorized to pay 50 percent of the claims.

The remainder of the payments to the ship, radio station and chemical claimants, will be made as money is received from Germany due under the reparations settlement for mixed claims.

The estimated balance due from Germany is approximately $250,000,000.

So far about $100,000,000 has been paid to American private claimants against Germany as a result of awards of the mixed claim commission.

Approximately $125,000,000 is yet due on awards already made or others that will be certified later by the claims commission. All awards so far made under $100,000, and those for death and personal injury claims have been paid in full. For claims of over $100,000 estimated at about $138,000,000, $77,000,000 has been paid.

A limitation of $100,000,000 was fixed by Congress for payments to German claimants for ships, patents and radio stations. With the ship valuation already fixed about three fourths of that maximum has been used. Should the arbiter determine that the patents and radio station had a valuation of over $25,000,000 it would be necessary for him to pro-rate the $100,000,000 to all claimants, thus reducing the amount that the ship-owners eventually would receive, unless Congress provided an additional appropriation.

In addition to the private claims the United States government had a balance due on army of occupation costs of $193,936,000, September 1, 1929. Beginning on that date under the Young plan the United States will receive an average

I. C. C. GIVES VANS HELP

WASHINGTON—Action of the interstate commerce commission in giving the Van Swearingen-controlled Missouri Pacific railroad tentative authority to lease 23 Southwestern lines, and outlining to it the steps in formulating a giant system patterned after a commission's general consolidation plan, was regarded today as highly significant.

Failure of Congress to pass the resolution of Sen. Couzens, (R.), of Michigan, aimed to postpone any action by the commission looking to the consolidation of railroads until there had been further inquiry into the activities of holding companies, made commission's action in the Missouri Pacific case significant because the decision was reached on June 2 and was not announced until July 10, after Congress had adjourned.

Observers see in the commission's action an opportunity for the Van Swearingen brothers, of Cleveland, to get on the ground floor in setting up a system that would cover a large part of the country and would conform to the commission's general plan for the No. 18 system, which would be known as the Missouri Pacific, and now that they have been given a cue by the commission, it is expected they bring these into the open "while the going is good."

KANSAS CITY MEN KILLED

Airmen Claim Lightning Hit Plane Killing Prominent Residents.

ARKANSAS PASS, Texas, July 11—Experienced airmen who viewed the wreckage of the monoplane which fell near here yesterday, killing four prominent Kansas City men and their pilot, agreed today that a bolt of lightning struck the plane, tearing both wings from the fuselage.

The plane returning to Kansas City from a fishing trip in the Gulf of Mexico when eyewitnesses saw what they thought was an explosion. Both wings parted from the fuselage, and the plane plunged to earth about five miles from here. The wings fell several hundred feet from the men's bodies.

The dead: Murat Boyle, president of the Missouri Bar Association, and leading Kansas City attorney.

R. J. Delano, contractor and prominent real estate dealer.

Raymond Watson, prominent attorney.

Eugene M. Lyon, president of the Kansas City Golf Association and expert accountant.

Eugene Gabbert, airplane pilot. County authorities were expected to call an inquest today to determine the exact cause of the crash.

In support of the theory that a bolt of lightning brought the accident residents hereabouts pointed out that thundershowers had occurred throughout the Corpus Christi region all day yesterday.

The plane, a single-motored Lockheed-Vega had been chartered from Dr. Walter Cross, president of the Kansas City Testing Laboratories.

Wasted Charm

How lovely that little bungalow appears from the outside. One pictures a modest but very attractive interior. Furnishings that are in good taste and a good quality without extravagance. Instead one finds a house-full of bargain-sale mediocrity; things that were "picked up" and Looked as if they were. The bungalow's charm has been unpleasantly counteracted. But then one can't expect EVERYONE to know that Stevenson's sells the finest possible furniture at lower-than-sale prices without ever resorting to the "Sales" policy.
